FIELD ITINERARY · FROM MUNICH

Königssee & Obersee

Two lakes, one full day out.

BOAT · ADULT RETURN
€29.80 to Salet

BOAT · ONE WAY
50–60 min

SALET → OBERSEE
15–20 min walk

YOUR CONNECTIONS

Munich — TRAIN — Freilassing — TRAIN — Berchtesgaden — BUS — Königssee — BOAT — Salet

1 Munich → Freilassing

10:43 departure · 13:58 at Königssee · 3 h 15 min

Use a Bayern-Ticket or your Deutschland-Ticket for the regional trains and bus. Leave early — this is a full day out, with two changes before the lake.

2 Freilassing → Berchtesgaden

Change trains here

At Berchtesgaden, change to a Königssee bus, such as line 843. Check your connection.

3 Bus → Königssee Seelände

13:45–13:58 bus · then about 5 min to the pier

Follow the signs to the boat pier. Allow extra time for queues.

4 Boat to Salet, via St. Bartholomä

15:15 boarding · 50–60 min one way

Choose a Salet return ticket for Obersee. The church stop is about 35 min from the pier.

5 Walk to Obersee

15–20 min each way

Enjoy the first lakeside view. Walking farther around Obersee takes extra time.

6 Back to Salet → Munich

Return bus 19:41 · scheduled Munich arrival 23:20

At Salet ~17:00; boarded ~17:25; back at Seelände ~18:30. Home before midnight.

Train + bus: Bayern-Ticket from €34 for one person; +€10 per extra person, up to five. Weekdays from 09:00; weekends all day. The boat costs extra. Already have a Deutschland-Ticket? Use it for the regional journey.

Haki tip — start earlier. I left Munich at 10:43 and got home close to midnight. Give yourself more lake time, and plan backwards from the last boat.

Times above: my trip on Sunday, 31 August 2025 · Fares checked: 4 October 2026
Salet is seasonal. Check current trains, buses and the boat timetable before you go.
